Central Oregon: The Crisis of Geographical Ignorance: Why Should We Care?
Thursday, March 10, 2:00–4:00 p.m., Bend Senior Center
Much is made about how little Americans know about geography, but why does it matter that most people are geographically ignorant? How does the failure to think geographically hamper efforts to confront the challenges of the twenty-first century?

Alexander B. Murphy, professor of geography at the University of Oregon, where he also holds the James F. and Shirley K. Rippey Chair in Liberal Arts and Sciences, addresses these questions through an exploration of the importance of geographical thinking and analysis for continued on page 2

Eugene/Springfield: Late Medieval Holy Women
Wednesday, March 2, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
This term Lisa Wolverton, associate professor of history, (OLLI lecture, April, 2009, Cosmos of Prague and the foundation narrative of Czech history,) is teaching a seminar on Late Medieval Holy Women. Focusing on the intersection of gender and spirituality in specific exemplars in Northern Europe and Italy, she explores the lives and writings of medieval saints such as Catherine of Siena, Angela of Foligno, Mechthild of Magdeburg, Birgitta of Sweden, and Julian of Norwich.

At stake are the intersections of visionary teaching and radical asceticism and the paradox of women’s continued on page 7

Guided Tour of TAKEN: FBI—Oregon Nikkei Legacy Center Exhibit
Wednesday, March 30, 10:30 a.m.–noon
A little known prelude to the internment, prominent members of the Japanese American community—mostly men—were rounded up by FBI agents just hours after the bombing of the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. Shackled and whisked away, often after dark with no explanations given to them or to their bewildered families, they were then sent to “special” camps in remote sites across the United States, different from the ones their families would begin to occupy from the summer of 1942.

Editor’s Note: Central Oregon

With winter still looming, it can be hard to think ahead to wildflowers, butterflies and all the beautiful Central Oregon outdoors has to offer. But the Central Oregon program committee is looking for outdoor adventures for Spring and Summer. We are already planning a trip to the Wooden Shoe Tulip Farm to enjoy acres of blossoms in April and a ranger-led trip into the Fort Rock Caves in June.

Do you have experience leading hikes or know where to find the wildflowers? Do you have knowledge of the best wildlife viewing or know where there is great birding? Have you discovered a hidden state park with geologic treasures?

Each spring and summer, OLLI-CO ventures into the outdoors to participate in and learn about the natural resources of the area. Often these trips are member led.

Other trips we turn to college instructors, geologists, naturalists, and local, state or federal park services for leadership.

Whether you have experience that qualifies you to lead, or just a great program idea that we can follow up, the program committee would love to hear from you. Please e-mail Helen Pruitt, program committee chair at hp Pruitt@aol.com and share your ideas or willingness to lead a group. There may still be snow in the forecast, but wildflowers are sure to follow.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Please read the article “The Future of OLLI-UO in Central Oregon” on page 6 of this newsletter. Your input is greatly appreciated.

Book Discussion
The Nine: Inside the Secret World of the Supreme Court by Jeffrey Toobin Tuesdays, March 1 and 15, 10:00 a.m.—noon Dudley’s Used Bookshop

Bestselling author Jeffrey Toobin takes you into the chambers of the most important, and secret, legal body in our country—the Supreme Court—and reveals the complex dynamic among the nine people who decide the law of the land. It’s not laws or constitutional theory that rule the High Court, argues this absorbing group profile, but quirky men and women guided by political intuition.

New Yorker legal writer, Toobin surveys the Court from the Reagan administration onward, as the justices wrestled with abortion, affirmative action, the death penalty, gay rights and church-state separation. Toobin reveals an institution at a moment of transition, when decades of conservative disgust with the Court have finally produced a conservative majority.

Despite a Court dominated by Republican appointees, Toobin paints not a conservative revolution but a period of intractable moderation. The real power, he argues, belonged to supreme swing-voter Sandra Day O’Connor, who decided important cases with what Toobin sees as an almost primal attunement to a middle-of-the-road public consensus. By contrast, he contends, conservative justices Rehnquist and Scalia ended up bitter old men, their rigorous constitutional doctrines made irrelevant by the moderates’ compromises.

The Nine tells the story of the Court through personalities. The author deftly distills the issues and enlivens his narrative of the Court’s internal wrangling with sharp thumbnail sketches—based on exclusive interviews with the justices themselves—(Anthony Kennedy the vain bloviator, David Souter the Thoreauvian ascetic) and editorials (inept and unsavory is his verdict on the Court’s intervention in the 2000 election). His savvy account puts the supposedly cloistered Court right in the thick of American life.

Coming In April: Open House
Famous/Infamous Trials—Lizzie Borden
Thursday, April 14; 2:00–4:00 p.m.
Bend Senior Center
Subsequent sessions: Wednesdays, April 20–May 25, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
Bend Senior Center
Lizzie Borden took an axe,
And gave her mother forty whacks,
When she saw what she had done,
She gave her father forty-one.
Although an exaggeration of the actual facts of the case, this ditty illustrates the public’s fascination with this sensational crime, the 1893 murder trial and the outcome that followed.

Join OLLI-CO and Carolyn Hill, J.D. on Thursday, April 14, for the Trial of Lizzie Borden, the first presentation of the new lecture series Famous/Infamous Trials. This is an OLLI-CO Open House, so invite friends and family to join you.

In subsequent class sessions, Hill will discuss the facts of each crime, the following investigation, the eventual prosecution and its outcome. We shall also learn more about the two legal systems that control the rights and liabilities of American citizens and residents of the states in which these crimes are committed. This class promises to be entertaining and educational with a bit of suspense mixed in.

Presenter and OLLI-CO member, Carolyn Hill, is a retired attorney with twenty-five years of experience in the practice of law. Born in Connecticut, she received a B.A. in liberal studies from Rhodes College in Memphis and earned her law degree at Lincoln Law School in Sacramento, where she practiced business and corporate law until retirement.

Future trials include the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire, the Black Sox trial, the Scottsboro Boys, the Rosenberg trial, My Lai Courts-Martial, and the Patty Hearst trial. Look for the April OLLI newsletter for specific class topics and dates.

Armchair Traveler—the Oregon Trail
Wednesday, April 6, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
Bend Senior Center
Join OLLI-CO member, Lynda Paznokas, for her Armchair Traveler presentation on the origins, landscape, and history of the Oregon Trail.

The Oregon Trail, a 2,000-mile historic east-west wagon route, connected towns on the Missouri River to valleys in Oregon. The trail began as a footpath of the Native Americans and was later used by explorers, fur trappers, and missionaries. Between 1841 and 1869, at least 350,000 people emigrated along the trail. The pioneers were truly emigrants because they were leaving the United States. It is considered the largest peacetime migration in the history of the world!

Lynda Paznokas was the Boeing Distinguished Professor of Science

The Oregon Trail, a 2,000-mile historic east-west wagon route . . . is considered the largest peacetime migration in the history of the world!

She writes curriculum books for teachers, serves on national science committees, and does educational consulting around the world.

As many of you are aware, when UO withdraws its undergraduate programs from the Chandler Building at the end of June, OLLI-UO will lose the use of the Chandler Building. That loss and a growth in class participation have the Governing Council and UO Academic Extension exploring new facilities to rent for classes, meetings and local headquarters. Touchmark and the Deschutes Historical Museum have worked well for our film series and the Chinese history class. If any of you are aware of available space, please contact council president, Russ Hopper russelhop@hotmail.com, program director, Ruth Heller ruthh@uoregon.edu, or call program assistant, Wen Wick at 541-617-4663.

With Thanks

The Wednesday Civil Liberties class offers many thanks to Kevin Carolan, Esq. for giving us one morning each week of his valuable time to facilitate our study group sessions. We appreciate his expertise in leading our discussions. He has been succinct and clear in his explanations of this difficult subject while lightening it with occasional humor.

Kevin graduated from South Eugene High School and Pomona College in Claremont California, and received his J.D. from the University of Oregon Law School. He came to Bend in 2005 to start his own firm specializing in employee civil rights and consumer protection cases.

The Future of OLLI-UO in Central Oregon

Do the lessons passed down to us by history, lessons whose origins may lie hundreds, even thousands, of years in the past, still have value for us today?

Professor J. Rufus Fears believes not only can we learn from history—we must. In this course, he draws on decades of experience as a world-renowned scholar and classical historian to examine the patterns of history. Ignoring them, by choice or because we’ve never learned to see them, is to risk becoming their prisoner, doomed to repeat the mistakes that have toppled leaders, nations, and empires throughout time.

Join OLLI-CO for the next course in our Wednesday morning history session. Starting date and location will be announced in an e-blast as soon as available.
Eugene/Springfield

Editor’s Note: Eugene/Springfield

Eugene’s members will wind up an already busy month on March 30 with a lively, entertaining program where members and guests will take a colorful walk down memory lane.

Everyone’s memories will be unique as the program portrays events and music of the 1920s, 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s. Combining the latest technology with half-forgotten dreams, each decade’s memories will include a multimedia presentation complete with PowerPoint photo collages and digitally recorded descriptive narrative. From the Roaring Twenties through the Baby Boom; from Gershwin to Elvis, music from each era will color a delightful afternoon.

Narrated by Jerry Gordon of KNUU, Las Vegas, the script was researched and written by OLLI member and author Olivia Taylor-Young. The project’s artistic and technological guru, Kirk Taylor, developed the PowerPoint presentation and was sound engineer. Local soloists and vocal groups will join Taylor to perform in the memory-filled musical sections of the program. This program is high on the not-to-be-missed list, be sure to mark your calendar for A Musical Memoir, 1:30–3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 30. The presentation is open to the public, so please invite your friends and neighbors to attend.

Each time I have the enjoyment of reading through our monthly newsletter, I am amazed at the wealth of topics and activities that are generated by a lively group of adults who are never finished with lifelong learning.

Oregon Shakespeare Festival Preview

Friday, March 4, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

Our resident theater guru, Thelma Greenfield, UO professor emerita of English Literature, will give us a preview of the plays that will be included in our Ashland trip. She will discuss: Measure for Measure, a familiar Shakespearean offering, Moliere’s The Imaginary Invalid, and a new staging of Harper Lee’s novel, To Kill a Mockingbird.

As usual, the OLLI Interpretive Play Reading Group will read cuttings from the plays. Whether you are traveling to Ashland or not, come join the fun by attending this illuminating session!

Opal Whiteley, the Last Literary Mystery of the Twentieth Century

Wednesday, March 9, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Perhaps you’ve seen the OPB documentary on Opal Whiteley, Cottage Grove’s literary star, but you’ll learn much more when UO researcher, Stephen Williamson, describes recent discoveries and insights into the controversies surrounding her life story.

In 1916 Opal Whiteley was the best-known teenager in Oregon. Brilliant and beautiful, many thought she would become the greatest scientist, writer and teacher Oregon had yet produced. Whiteley grew up in the woods near Cottage Grove, where her family worked in logging and gold mining. As a young teen she became well known for her nature hikes and lectures to young children. Her encyclopedic knowledge of natural history and geology caught the attention of UO professors, who welcomed her to their classes in 1916. She stayed only three semesters, due to financial and family problems.

At twenty-two, Opal traveled to Boston, where the Atlantic Monthly became interested in her life’s story and decided to publish the diary from her sixth and seventh years. It quickly became an international sensation. Readers loved the story of a gifted, orphaned girl, growing up in the lumber camps of Oregon but book sales fell when critics charged Opal had written her diary as an adult. Opal

Essential Geography of the United States
Friday, March 11, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
“A map is much more than a compilation of places. Maps have character, meaning and even narrative.”

David Imus, the award-winning mapmaker from Veneta, brought personality to the idea of mapping Oregon. Now he has done it for the whole United States.

Imus conceives of his mapmaking as an artistic project. Not only does his map portray the geographically significant features and the political boundaries of the states, but it also denotes historically and culturally significant sites. According to Bob Welch, Imus is both scientist and artist, raising the art of mapmaking to a whole new level.

Join us on March 11 to hear David Imus unfold the secrets of the Essential Geography of the United States of America.

Gender Roles in Rural Entrepreneurship: Bolivian Women Tell Their Stories
Wednesday, March 16, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Alejandra Garcia, a native of Bolivia, did research in the summer of 2010 among indigenous peoples in rural areas of Bolivia. Ms. Garcia looked at poverty reduction strategies, such as making small loans to women who want to become entrepreneurs on a small scale. She has recorded a series of testimonials from such women, which she will draw upon in her analysis of gender issues in rural Bolivia. Many of the women with whom she spoke have been able to achieve integration and equity with men as entrepreneurs.

Garcia, who has an M.A. in gender and women’s studies from Armstrong Atlantic State University, is now doing graduate work in the Department of Planning, Public Policy and Management at UO. Before arriving in Oregon, she worked as social performance manager for Programs for Women (Pro Mujer), a microfinance organization in Latin America.

Referendum: Southern Sudan’s Route to Independence and the Challenges Ahead
Friday, March 18, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
The results of Southern Sudan’s January referendum, when officially announced in mid-February, will undoubtedly legitimize independence for Sudan’s mostly Christian south from the mostly Arab-Islamic north after more than fifty years of devastating war. Jubilation throughout the south at what is regarded as a momentous victory is tempered somewhat by uncertainty and wariness. Will northern Sudan’s President Bashir honor his pledge to accept the referendum outcome? Could pending issues, including border demarcation and management of oil resources, spark new conflict?

Will independence for Southern Sudan impact the ongoing tragedy in Darfur? OLLI member, and former U.S. Ambassador to Guinea, Joyce Leader will discuss the significance of this referendum within its historical context and the challenges that lie ahead for the new state, for Africa, and for the international community. A specialist in African affairs focusing primarily on conflict resolution and humanitarian issues, Joyce visited Southern Sudan in November as a consultant for the Brookings Institution’s Project on Internal Displacement.

The Songs of Fanny Mendelssohn
Wednesday, March 23, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Fanny Mendelssohn (1805–1847), the older sister of Felix Mendelssohn, did not have the benefit of the same musical education and upbringing as her brother. However, like Felix, she showed a passion for music and showed prodigious musical ability as a child.

Her father was not supportive of her music, writing to her in 1820: “Music will perhaps become his [i.e. Felix’s] profession while for you it can and must only be an ornament.” Felix was supportive of her as a composer but reluctant to allow her to publish her works under her own name. Her husband, the painter Wilhelm Hensel, was also supportive of her work. Through her relatively short life, Fanny composed 466 pieces of music, including a piano trio and several books of piano pieces and 250 songs.

Stephen Rodgers, assistant professor of music theory and musicianship at UO School of Music and Dance, will discuss how her music influenced and was influenced by her brother’s music. Rodgers is also a pianist and a singer, so this presentation will be a lecture–demonstration of the songs of Fanny Mendelssohn.

Short Stories of Our Time

Wednesdays, March 2, 9, 16, 23; April 6, 10:00–11:30 a.m.

If you love a good story, join us in March to discuss some of the twentieth century’s best short fiction from an anthology edited by American novelist John Updike. These stories of our times from various decades, places, and social settings, can help us explore our personal and collective histories.

The course offers classic tales by Susan Glaspell, William Faulkner, John Cheever, Joyce Carol Oates, Raymond Carver, and Tim O’Brien, along with a few new stories by today’s most talented young writers.

Dr. Sheila Pardee, retired literature instructor and OLLI-UO member, will facilitate the discussions.

Contact the OLLI office, 541-346-0697, to pre-register by Tuesday, March 1.

A wealth of program ideas were generated at the latest Snack and Yak, held on February 9. Members who attended discussed the direction of Geopolitical Affairs and proposed many new programs, including the inclusion of an OLLI Film Club in the March schedule.

The Film Club, designed as a place to convene to watch and discuss films with common themes, motifs or symbols, will meet twice monthly. Themes and films will be chosen a month in advance of screenings by the Film Club, however, suggestions for films or themes of interest are always welcome, regardless of past Film Club attendance. This month’s theme, British Imperialism, will include the films, The Man Who Would Be King (1975), directed by John Huston and The Wind That Shakes the Barley (2006), directed by Ken Loach.

While films provide an excellent diversion in these dreary winter months, it’s not too early to start thinking about and planning trips for our spring schedule. In June, we hope to provide OLLI-UO members with the opportunity to travel to the Central Oregon coast in a chartered bus to visit the Oregon Coast Aquarium, enjoy the surf and even venture out onto the great Pacific for an hour-long whale-watching excursion.

We can always use help in planning programs, and especially trips. If you’re interested in helping to make arrangements or if there is another trip you would like to propose or help to plan, please let me know by calling 503-412-3653. Your suggestions and contributions are always appreciated, join us at the next Snack and Yak on Wednesday, March 9, from 1:00–2:00 p.m.

Who were these individuals? How was the FBI able to target them so soon after the surprise attack? How was this possible? What did it mean for a country that claimed, and was internationally recognized for, its democratic principles of “liberty and justice for all?”

On Saturday, March 5, from 10:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m., OLLI-UO members have the unique opportunity to attend a workshop with the Oregon Nikkei Legacy Center, led by National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) staff who will demonstrate how to research and retrieve records, including FBI files, from sources such as NARA and footnote.com.

Laptop computers will be provided for hands-on research. Seating is limited. To reserve your spot, RSVP to info@oregonnikkei.org or call 503-224-1458.

To complete your workshop experience, join OLLI on Wednesday, March 30, for a guided tour of the Oregon Nikkei Legacy Center and their featured exhibit, TAKEN: FBI, followed by a tour of the Japanese-American Historical Plaza. RSVP for this exhibit by calling 503-412-3653.

Tackling the Columbia River Crossing

Monday, March 14, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

The Columbia River Crossing, a project proposing the replacement of the I-5 bridge over the Columbia River, is a hot debate locally. Issues addressed by the project in addition to the replacement of the I-5 bridge include light rail extension to Vancouver, rebuilding five closely-spaced interchanges, creating wider pedestrian and bicycle paths, and implementing electronic tolling. Once complete, the “region will benefit from no bridge lifts, less congestion on I-5 and local streets, earthquake protection, fewer collisions, and more travel choices.”

So what’s the debate? Join Ronald Buel for his presentation on the Columbia River Crossing. Discussion will follow. Buel is the founding editor and publisher of Willamette Week, and was a staff reporter and bureau chief for the Wall Street Journal. He worked at Nike, where he was director of business and strategic planning. He is currently the CEO of Donavon Mobile Solutions.

Chinese Culture

Tuesdays, March 15–May 3

2:00–4:00 p.m.

The growth in China’s economic power has awakened unprecedented media attention. The reaction, particularly in the West, has been a mixture of admiration and foreboding. Greater knowledge of Chinese culture and history can provide the background to better evaluate the often superficial media reports. This class covers:

- Chinese language and history: an overview.
- Family and Food: the core of Chinese social life.
- Chinese values and beliefs: major religious traditions.
- The humiliating impact of Western imperialism in the nineteenth century.
- The transition from tradition to modernity in the twentieth century, culminating in the contemporary cultural hybrid between East and West in which economic expansion thrives within an authoritarian political system.

Presenter Philip Silverman is an OLLI member and professor emeritus of anthropology from California State University Bakersfield. He retired from teaching in 2001.

Rise and Fall of the British Empire: A Teaching Company DVD Series

Mondays, March 1–29

10:30 a.m.–noon

“At its peak in the early twentieth century, Britain’s empire was the largest in the history of the world, greater even than that of ancient Rome. It embraced more than a fourth of the world’s population and affected the course of Western civilization in ways almost too numerous to imagine.

“Yet only seven decades after achieving its unprecedented global reach, the British Empire had virtually disappeared, swept aside by historical forces as powerful as those that had first propelled it into being.

How and why did this happen? What were those forces that thrust the British Empire to its extraordinary position and then just as powerfully drove it into decline?” (http://www.teach12.com/tgc/courses/course_detail.aspx?cid=8480)

Join OLLI for a weekly exploration of these questions as we view these lectures by Professor Patrick N. Allitt of Emory University and discuss the lessons and significance of four centuries of British history.

Geopolitical Affairs Discussion Group

Wednesdays, March 2–30

2:00–4:00 p.m.

This study group spans a wide array of topics concerning foreign policy, domestic political and social issues, warring peoples and nations, and other problems confronting us.

For the first two sessions in March, discussions will be based on the topics of the Great Decisions lectures sponsored by The World Affairs Council of Oregon. See calendar listings for information on Great Decisions lectures.

Extra Innings

Thursdays, March 3–31

10:30 a.m.–noon

This experimental discussion course will utilize emerging findings from the science of gerontology as well as Gerogogy, defined as self-directed learning using life experience as a platform. This discussion course is not a life-review course. Class discussion will not only allow participants to look back on past experiences, but will encourage participants to look ahead as they travel through their third age. Parking and Transportation Tips
Finding parking can often seem like a challenge for OLLI members attending events at the Portland White Stag Block. To make that task a little easier, we would like to share the following information:

On-Street Parking
There are over 7,000 on-street parking spaces in the downtown area. The White Stag Block is surrounded by ninety-minute parking meters; however there are five-hour meters just blocks away, near NW 3rd and Flanders. The parking meter rate is $1.60 per hour. Parking meters operate 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Sundays.

Garage Parking
Another option is to park in the Smart Park Garage at NW Naito and NW Davis, just one block north. Smart Park Garages offer affordable parking at $1.50 per hour.

Public Transportation
Both the Red and Blue Tri-Met Max lines run right past the White Stag Block with a convenient stop at Old Town/China Town just one block north. Honored citizens (those 65+) can purchase a two-hour ticket for just one dollar.

Safety First
A security guard is available upon request to escort you to the MAX or your vehicle. For more information on this service, please call 503-412-3653.

Leaving a Trace: Writing About Your Life
Thursdays, March 3–31
2:30–4:30 p.m.
“This group is an opportunity to encourage yourself to write, to explore what it means, to tell others and to enjoy the adventure. It will also be a chance to put down all of those stories that you want your children and grandchildren to remember, and a chance to tell your story your way. I hope this will be a fun time for all as we write and sometimes share, telling our stories.” (Judi McGavin)
