Central Oregon: Oceans in Art—From Frederic Church to Andreas Gursky
Tuesday, May 17, 2:00-4:00 p.m.
Distinguished professor of Art History, Henry Sayre will present Oceans in Art—From Frederic Church to Andreas Gursky at the Bend Senior Center on Tuesday, May 17. Originally presented at an interdisciplinary conference on the oceans, Dr. Sayre will define the role of the ocean in the imagination of painters and photographers particularly focusing on icebergs and the arctic, beginning with Frederic Church’s (1826-1900) magnificent paintings of icebergs to Andreas Gursky (b. 1955), whose photographs sell for up to four million dollars.

In 1997, Dr. Sayre completed production of a multimedia teaching package for art appreciation, funded by a $1.2

Eugene/Springfield: The Lakota Nation and the Black Hills: The Struggle for Sacred Ground
Monday, May 2, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
Professor Jeff Ostler, of the UO department of history, will give his audience new insights into the history of our western lands from his latest book, The Lakotas and the Black Hills: The Struggle for Sacred Ground. Ostler has taught history at the university since 1990, and published three books and many articles about struggles over land in the nineteenth century west between Native American Nations and U.S. government-backed settlers. He is currently working on a new book, The Destruction and Survival of American Indian Nations, 1776-1900.

Monday, May 23, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
Join Professor Cornel D. Pewewardy, director and associate professor of Native American Studies at Portland State University for this first lecture in the “New Views” series. This thought-provoking new series is designed to challenge the way in which we view the world, addressing evolving social issues to encourage new thinking and dialog. A follow-up discussion session for this first lecture will be held on Tuesday, May 24, 1:30–2:30 p.m.

Abstract: While culturally responsive teaching is greatly advancing Indigenous education (the inclusion of indigenous knowledge, models, methods and content within formal and non-formal million grant from the Annenberg Foundation at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, that includes a ten-part television series, Works in Progress, co-produced with Oregon Public Broadcasting. It first aired on PBS in the fall of 1997.

With seven published books topping his accomplishments, one of which is the leading art appreciation book in the country, Sayre confesses he knows more than a little something about art history, particularly American and European art of the 19th and 20th centuries. In his writing and research, Sayre focuses on the arts and their interrelations, particularly on contemporary genres such as performance and installation. Two of his textbooks, are widely used throughout the nation—an art appreciation text, A World of Art, and a writing guide, Writing about Art. His most recent book, the award-winning Cave Paintings to Picasso is geared for fifth graders.

Join OLLI at the Bend Senior Center for an afternoon of art and ice.

Fort Rock Cave Tour
Friday, June 3, 7:45 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
On Friday, June 3, OLLI will journey to Fort Rock Cave in the Fort Rock Basin, which has served as a vital part of the Native American lifestyle in Oregon. The Cave is the site of an archaeological discovery made in 1936 by Dr. Luther Cressman from the University of Oregon of several 9,000 to 13,000 year-old sagebrush sandals and human artifacts. The story of the Fort Rock Basin is told by the artifacts left behind and by the rich oral tradition of the tribes who claim the area as home. We will have the opportunity to tour the cave and many of the nearby sites.

Guides from the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department will lead us on the fifteen minute van ride from Ft Rock Park to the cave site, a gentle 1/3 mile hike to the cave, a ninety minute presentation in the cave, then return hike and van ride back to Ft Rock Park. At Fort Rock Park, the tour will continue through the Fort Rock Museum and other points of interest, e.g. hiking in the Fort Rock Basin, and visiting the historic cemetery.

Tours into the cave are limited to ten people per group and we will have two OLLI groups of ten each. While the first group participates in the cave tour, the second will tour the museum and other areas. The two groups will meet for lunch at noon and at 1:00 p.m. the groups exchange guided tours.

Rangers recommend people wear warm layers, hat, firm shoes, and bring water; the weather can range from wind and spitting snow to very warm temperatures. Please do not bring pets; they cannot be left in vehicles while owners are on the tour.

We'll meet at 7:45 a.m. at the Albertson’s parking lot on 97 South, leaving the parking lot by 8:00 a.m. to make the seventy-mile trip.

Reservations are limited to twenty members and are on a first come, first served basis. Please call the Academic Extension office, 800-824-2714, by May 27 to reserve your space and let us know if you're willing to be a carpool driver. With the price of gas on the increase, we're suggesting that each passenger contribute $10 to the driver to cover expenses.

One additional option for the afternoon following the Cave tours is dinner at the Cowboy Dinner Tree. The Cowboy Dinner Tree is twenty-seven miles south on Hwy 31 past Silver Lake. Reservations are required and the cost is $24 for a meal that is enough to feed you all week! Menu choices are a 26-30 ounce steak or a whole chicken. There’s no splitting dinners and coolers are recommended to bring leftovers home. http://www.cowboydinnertree.net/. When you call to RSVP, please let us know if you’ll be joining the group for dinner or returning to Bend after the tour.

Book Discussion: The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks by Rebecca Skloot

Tuesdays, May 3 and 17, 10:00 a.m.-noon

Just the simple facts are hard to believe: that in 1951, a poor black woman named Henrietta Lacks dies of cervical cancer, but pieces of the tumor that killed her—taken without her knowledge or consent—live on, first in one lab, then in hundreds, then thousands, then in giant factories churning out polio vaccines, then aboard rocket ships launched into space.

The cells from this one tumor spawned the first viable, indeed miraculously productive, cell line—known as HeLa. These cells have aided in medical discoveries from the polio vaccine to AIDS treatments and would spawn a multi-billion dollar industry and become a foundation of modern science—leading to breakthroughs in gene mapping, cloning and fertility and helping to discover how viruses work and how cancer develops, among a million other things.

Science journalist Skloot makes a remarkable debut with this multilayered story about faith, science, journalism, and grace. It is also a tale of medical wonders and medical arrogance, racism, poverty and the bond that grows, sometimes painfully, between two very different women—Skloot and Deborah Lacks—sharing an obsession to learn about Deborah’s mother, Henrietta, and her magical, immortal cells.

What Skloot so poignantly portrays is the devastating impact Henrietta’s death and the eventual importance of her cells had on her husband and children. Skloot tells a rich, resonant tale of modern science, the wonders it can perform and how easily it can exploit society’s most vulnerable people.

From Publishers Weekly, writer Jad Abumrad is host and creator of the Public Radio hit, Radiolab.

Presenter and OLLI-CO member, Carolyn Hill, is a retired attorney with twenty-five years of experience in the practice of law. Born in Connecticut, she received a BA in Liberal Studies from Rhodes College in Memphis and earned her law degree at Lincoln Law School in Sacramento where she practiced business and corporate law until retirement.

Study Group: Wisdom of History
Wednesdays, May 4, 11, 16 and 25, 10:00 a.m.–noon
Do the lessons passed down to us by history, lessons whose origins may lie hundreds, even thousands, of years in the past, still have value for us today?

Professor J. Rufus Fears believes not only can we learn from history—we must. In this course, he draws on decades of experience as a world-renowned scholar and classical historian to examine the patterns of history. Ignoring them, by choice or because we’ve never learned to see them, is to risk becoming their prisoner, doomed to repeat the mistakes that have toppled leaders, nations, and empires throughout time.

Join OLLI-CO for this ongoing study group.

Discussion Groups Summer Schedule Update
Thinking Allowed led by Ruth Burleigh holds its final session on May 23 and will resume September 12.

Vandervort will end in June and resume the third Monday in September.

China from Yao to Mao holds its final class on Thursday, May 12. Our thanks go to Tom Roberts and Nancy McCullough for facilitating this excellent program.

Coming in June, Professor J. Rufus Fears: A Historical Perspective of the Middle East in Light of Current Events
Wednesday, June 15, 7:00 p.m. OLLI members are currently enjoying Dr. Fears as presenter of our current DVD study group Wisdom of History. Now we have the opportunity to hear him speak in person and ask the questions that we’ve been holding for him.

An acclaimed teacher and scholar with more than twenty-five awards for teaching excellence, Professor Fears was chosen Professor of the Year on three occasions by students at the University of Oklahoma.

Join us for this evening co-sponsored by OLLI in conjunction with the Bend City Club, Tom and Martha Daniels and Dr. Knute Buehler. The lecture will be held in Wiley Hall on the COCC campus.

A Special Note
Welcome to Gerry and Bruce Sharp who have agreed to take on the co-chairmanship of our new Activities and Travel committee. We’re still looking for additional members to join them. Contact Program Committee chair Helen Pruitt, 541-382-7827, if you’re interested in joining the fun!
In April, ideas from all over the country were in the air as Osher Lifelong Learning Institute members convened for the Seventh Annual Conference in Itasca, Illinois. The three days of intensive meetings illustrated the commitment of the organization to its members, as delegates attended a varied range of workshops. Topics included cost management, social networking, membership matters, curriculum, the creative edge, science education, and collaboration for success with community organizations. It was quite a dazzling array.

During workshops, delegates exchanged information about their programs and learned what had succeeded, and perhaps what had not worked so well. I busily took notes, as did Ruth Heller, program director of OLLI at the University of Oregon, who has a strong interest in community outreach and education projects. Ruth was also a presenter. The atmosphere was lively, and we found much to build our Oregon OLLI branches into more enjoyable, professional, and productive meeting places for our members. I came away inspired and also proud to be a member of such a community of scholars.

Women in Science: Hitting the Plexiglass Ceiling
Friday, May 6, 2:00-4:00 p.m.
Women face barriers to success in every field of science and engineering, obstacles that deprive the world of an important source of talent. This presentation describes current barriers for women in technical careers and what creative actions are being taken to reduce them.

Geraldine Richmond, the Richard M. and Patricia H. Noyes Professor of Chemistry at UO, has taught science for over thirty years and actively pursues scientific research. She also works diligently to increase the number and career successes of women scientists and engineers around the globe, receiving numerous national and international awards for these efforts.

WikiLeaks: Effects on Diplomacy
Monday, May 9, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
Keith A. Eddins, recently-retired American diplomat, will discuss several implications of the WikiLeaks scandal, in which thousands of classified diplomatic documents were released publicly. Using examples from leaked U.S. cables, Eddins explains how telegrams come in various styles that address the needs of different Washington audiences. He will discuss the impact of the releases, both on contemporary international affairs (e.g., the revolution in Tunisia) and diplomacy between the United States and other nations. There will be time for robust discussion after his talk.

Eddins, who moved to Eugene in September 2010 after three decades in the U.S. Foreign Service, was...

Exploring Communication Choices in the 21st Century
Friday, May 13, 2:00-4:00 p.m.
We often rely on low-attention density modes like e-mail or text messaging when higher levels of intensity are needed. Yet in face-to-face communication we must manage the two strongest messengers, our body language and voice tone, in order to be effective. The better we understand the reasons behind our communication choices and their effects, the more intentional we can be.

International Student Programs
Monday, May 16, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
In a program that has been very popular in the past, we will hear four international students—two each from the University of Oregon and Lane Community College—tell us about life in their home countries and experiences living and attending school in Eugene-Springfield. Because Spring quarter is just beginning, the list of speakers is incomplete, but many areas, Asia (especially China), the Middle East, Africa, and others are well represented at the two schools.

We’ll also hear from those closest to the programs: Jennifer Falzerano, director of Lane International Programs will speak on activities at LCC while Steve Gillbreath will speak for the UO Friendship Foundation.

Limits, Challenges, Opportunities: The 2011 Legislature
Wednesday, May 18, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
How do you handle a $3.6 billion revenue shortfall coupled with increasing needs of schools, the disabled, at risk kids and failing infrastructure? How does the Legislature deal with a thirty-thirty split between Republicans and Democrats or the Senate with a two-vote majority of Democrats? Is anything getting done? Are major issues, other than the budget, being addressed? What about redistricting, which must have a legislative district plan by July 1?

Kappy Eaton, governance coordinator for the League of Women Voters of Oregon, UO associate professor emerita, and a citizen advocate for fifty years, will lead this analysis of the 2011 Legislature, its priorities, its progress, and probable ending.

All the News Fit to Post?
Comparing News Content on the Web to Newspapers, Television and Radio
Friday, May 20, 2:00-4:00 p.m.
Journalism is at a critical juncture: legacy news media are losing audience while online news operations draw increasingly larger readership. More people now go online to get their news than read the newspaper or watch network news. The growing migration to online news sources has a tumultuous economic impact on traditional news outlets. But does the shift also represent a sea-change in news content?

UO Professor Scott Maier, a former journalist now teaching at the School of Journalism and Communication, has conducted several studies to consider how online news differs from old-style platforms.
Building Character: The Non-Verbal Language of Costumes
Monday, May 23, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
The art of costume design is a mixture of magic and deliberation. When an actor walks onstage the audience senses the circumstances of that character, male or female, young or old, rich or poor, dull or bright, powerful or powerless, based on the image created by the costume designer. Using elements of design, line, form, color, and texture, the costume designer develops a unique representation for each character in every play to communicate that individual’s essence. Based on life, but a heightened reality, costumes transform actor to character, adding the last essential aspect to their performances.

Alexandra Bonds is the professor of Costume Design in the UO Department of Theatre Arts. Using images from University Theatre productions, she will illustrate both the creative and analytical approach to characterization to illuminate your appreciation of theatrical performance.

Editor’s Note: Portland

This month we are introducing a new, ongoing series called “New Views.” This thought-provoking lecture/discussion series is designed to challenge the way in which we view the world, addressing evolving social issues to encourage new thinking and dialog. Learn about an issue you’re not at all familiar with or listen to new (and sometimes controversial) opinions on worn topics.

For our first lecture in this series, Professor Cornel D. Pewewardy, director and associate professor of Native American Studies at Portland State University, will present, Promoting Critical Liberation Praxis: Peace, Power and Place in Indigenous Praxis on Monday, May 23, at 1:30 p.m. While the subject of Indigenous Praxis might seem foreign, it is a serious concern in education.

Dr. Pewewardy, who has an extensive background in this subject, is the founding principal of the American Indian Magnet Schools in St. Paul, MN, Public School District, and in 1991 was named National Indian Educator of the Year by the National Indian Education Association. Additionally, Dr. Pewewardy is a 2006 Tribal College Leadership Development Project Fellow at the Institute for Educational Management at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

To help members make the most of “New Views” lectures, a one-hour discussion will be scheduled for the following day. This break between the lecture and discussion will hopefully provide time to think about the topic, do a bit of research or formulate more questions.

Suggestions for “New Views” topics are always welcome. To suggest a topic, contact the Membership office at 503-412-3653.

educational systems) by opening pathways to honor tribal differences and inequalities such as racism and social class, the conceptual analysis’ practice methods rarely addressed how power, privilege, and oppression interconnected. Furthermore the intersectionality of gender, race, class, intertribalism, sexual orientation and intergenerational healing were absent from the multicultural education scholarship. A social justice approach to Indigenous education was missing, one that would weave all these threads into critical liberation praxis.

Professor Pewewardy will share insights from his experiences engaging in critical liberatory praxis as a teacher educator in higher education. Participants are encouraged to participate in the discussion by sharing their wisdom, insights, and strategies so the group process synergistically promotes regeneration for continued involvement in ongoing efforts to challenge white settler, patriarchal society.

“Professor Pewewardy (D.Ed. 1989, Pennsylvania State University) is Comanche-Kiowa and an enrolled member of the Comanche Nation of Oklahoma. Dr. Pewewardy served as a post-doctoral fellow in the Center for Multi-Ethnic Education at the University of Oklahoma. Prior to joining Portland State University, he was an Associate Professor in the Department of Teaching and Leadership and Center for Indigenous Nations Studies at the University of Kansas as well as adjunct faculty in American Indian Studies at Haskell Indian Nations University. From 2005-2007, Dr. Pewewardy was the Dean of Academic Instruction at the Comanche Nation College in Lawton, Oklahoma. In 2007, Dr. Pewewardy taught courses in American Indian Studies at Fresno City College in Fresno, California and worked as a Tribal Administrator and consultant with local casino gaming tribes in the Central Valley of California.

“He was named Teacher of the Year by the National Indian Education Association (NIEA). Since 1977, NIEA has honored Native leaders who have changed and improved the lives of their schoolchildren and impacted dialog concerning Native education issues, both locally and nationally” (http://www.pdx.edu/nas/nas-news).

Digging Up the King's Valley Groundsloth
Monday, May 9, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
Only 11,000 years ago the Willamette valley had a vertebrate fauna of very large to huge mammals including elephants (Mammoth and Mastodon), Sabre tooth cats, dire wolves, giant beaver, bison, condors and ground sloths. The latter group included two species of which the Harlan sloth (Mylodon harlani) was the most common. The remains of such a sloth were discovered almost a generation ago in Kings Valley and excavated only last winter. The skeleton is about eighty percent complete, and Dr. Orr’s talk will take you through the process of excavation, stabilization of the bones and identification. Discover that the sloth was related to anteaters and armadillos, had sharp claw-like fingers up to a foot long, was armored with thousands of bone pieces imbedded in its inch thick leathery hide and weighed in at almost 2000 pounds.

Dr. William Orr retired from the University of Oregon staff as emeritus professor in 1997 after thirty years in Eugene. He and Elizabeth Orr are director and curator of the Condon collection of Fossils in the Museum of Cultural and Natural History. Together, they have written some fifteen books on aspects of Oregon’s earth sciences as well as issues of ground water. They received their training at the University of Oklahoma, University of Michigan, and the University of California. The Orrs make their home in Marion county.

The Essential Geography of the United States of America
Monday, May 16, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
“A map is much more than a compilation of places. Maps have character, meaning and even narrative.” David Imus, the award-winning mapmaker from Veneta, OR, brought personality to the idea of mapping Oregon. Now he has done it for the whole United States.

Imus conceives of his mapmaking as an artistic project. Not only does his map portray the geographically significant features and the political boundaries of the states, but it also denotes 1,000 historically and culturally significant sites. According to Bob Welch of the (Eugene) Register-Guard, Imus is both scientist and artist, raising the art of mapmaking to an all-new level.

The Cartography and Geographic Information Society (CaGIS) has just selected The Essential Geography of the United States of America as the best map published in North America in 2010. Among other publications considered were four entries from National Geographic, including The National Geographic Atlas of the World.

World’s Greatest Paintings: A Teaching Company DVD Series
Wednesdays, May 4–25, 10:30 a.m.–noon
“Great paintings challenge us to understand them, to penetrate their mysteries, and to appreciate their riches. But within the vast history of art, there exist only a small number of paintings that transcend the traditional role of art to become cultural signifiers—works that allow us to comprehend more deeply the world and our place within it.

“So what distinguishes one of these select masterworks? Dazzling in their visual impact and their grip on the imagination, the world’s greatest paintings:

- challenge the conventions of the art of their times, extending or transforming the painter’s visual language and broadening the impact of art in Western societies;
- serve as visual anchors of faith, politics, philosophy, mythology, literature, and every phase and aspect of social history; and
- depict human life in visions of enduring power, reflecting and affecting the times and cultures in which they were created.

“The World’s Greatest Paintings explores one of the supreme legacies of human life, opening rich

Parking and Transportation Tips

Finding parking can often seem like a challenge for OLLI members attending events at the Portland White Stag Block. To make that task a little easier, we would like to share the following information:

On-Street Parking

There are over 7,000 on-street parking spaces in the downtown area. The White Stag Block is surrounded by ninety-minute parking meters; however there are five-hour meters just blocks away, near NW 3rd and Flanders. The parking meter rate is $1.60 per hour. Parking meters operate 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Sundays.

Garage Parking

Another option is to park in the Smart Park Garage at NW Naito and NW Davis, just one block north of the White Stag Block. Smart Park Garages offer affordable parking at $1.50 per hour.

Public Transportation

Both the Red and Blue Tri-Met Max lines run right past the White Stag Block with a convenient stop at Old Town/China Town just one block north. Honored citizens (those 65+) can purchase a two-hour ticket for just one dollar.

Safety First

A security guard is available upon request to escort you to the MAX or your vehicle. For more information on this service, please call 503-412-3653.
