Central Oregon: She Cried for Mother Russia: The Mystery of a Russian Princess
Thursday, July 14, 4:00–5:30 p.m.
Friedl Semans Bell, retired teacher and author of She Cried For Mother Russia, grew up on the central California coast during World War II listening to her mother, a recent German immigrant, and Tanya Kelley, a refugee Russian noblewoman, lament the loss and destruction of their respective countries. In spite of a fifty-year friendship with Tanya, the former Princess Tatiana Volkonsky of czarist Russia, the author never learned the circumstances under which her friend had escaped death at the hands of the Bolsheviks during the Russian Revolution of 1917. When Tanya died in

Eugene/Springfield: George Washington: The Man, Not the Myth
Wednesdays, July 6–27, and August 3, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
Most of us learned in school that George Washington was a man who had wooden teeth, chopped down a mysterious cherry tree, and stood up in the bow of a boat when everyone knows that is something you never do. But, what do we know about the real George Washington?

This series of classes will describe a man who loved pineapple and salty cod, drank great quantities of Madeira wine daily, dreamed of being an officer in the British Army, but instead led an “army” made up of inexperienced volunteer militia, most of whom had never fired at another human being even if they were fortunate enough to own a musket.

Portland: Author Event—“Portland’s Goose Hollow”
Wednesday, July 27, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
Did you know that Tanner Creek, a fifty-foot deep trench, once bisected Portland’s west side? Or that it emptied into Couch Lake, a catfish-rich basin seeping across much of what we know as Old Town? Historian Dr. Tracy J. Prince will speak about her new book, Portland’s Goose Hollow, which was released April 11, 2011. In her presentation, Prince will show slides of Goose Hollow, one of Portland’s oldest neighborhoods, through its amazing transformation as well as answer definitively how Tanner Creek Gulch was filled and how Goose Hollow got its name.

Dr. Prince is currently Portland State University’s Portland Center for the Public Humanities scholar in residence. Her
Editor’s Note: Central Oregon

It’s been said that while our Central Oregon OLLI-UO members enjoy each other’s intellect, conversation and spirited discussion, we don’t often follow up by enjoying each other’s company outside of the classrooms.

We’d like to remedy that situation with an innovative idea. How often and where do you bump into other OLLI-CO members? We always meet at the Central Oregon Symphony concerts. We frequently see each other at First Friday Art Walk and generally at the High Desert Museum program openings. Where else do you see OLLI members?

As a group, we have a lot in common, but we don’t necessarily extend a social invitation outside of OLLI. Let’s remedy that situation.

Introducing: Member-to-Member events
This isn’t for events being planned by the program committee. This is for each of us to extend an invitation to OLLI members to meet for a public, or private, event. We’ll include it in our newsletter, our weekly e-minders or our e-blasts.

Are you a “Munch and Music” attendee? Do you know where a great jazz—or other—group is playing? Would you like some company? How about happy hour before or after the Symphony?

Those who’ve shared a meal and some libation after a day’s field trip always enjoy themselves and the company of their OLLI friends. We’d like to help expand the friendships.

If you’ve got an idea or a member-to-member invitation to extend, contact Helen Pruitt at hpruitt@aol.com or Jeanne Freeman at jfreeman@bendbroadband.com for help getting your message out. Items for the weekly e-minders need to be submitted by Tuesday of the week prior to the event for Friday delivery.

1988, her friends and family thought that the secrets of her horrific escape were buried with her.

In her presentation, Ms. Bell, now of Eugene, Oregon, reveals how the discovery in 2005 of a small box of Russian documents provided the first clues in reconstructing her friend’s brutal flight from Russia, the part of her past the young princess could not bear to remember.

First published in October 2009, and recently in its second printing, Tanya’s story has continued to unfold. A “secret” branch of the Volkonsky family in Washington, D.C., has become reconciled with its Russian roots, and an orthodox Russian priest, who currently lives in the village of Sabinino on land once belonging to Tanya’s family, is working with the Russian government, to memorialize the nobles who, over ninety years ago, were forced to run for their lives from their ancestral estate.

Activities and Travel: Metolius Preserve Field Trip
Monday, July 25, 10:00 a.m.—noon
The Deschutes Land Trust conserves and protects land in Central Oregon for Central Oregonians. They care for more than 8,200 acres in our region for today, tomorrow, and generations to come.

Join OLLI-CO and Amanda Egertson, Deschutes Land Trust’s stewardship director for what she describes as a “nature putter” around the Metolius Preserve.

“I envision a mellow nature ramble with time to stop and look at birds, flowers, butterflies, and more,” said Amanda. “We’ll chat about the Land Trust in general, Metolius Preserve, how we manage the property, the kinds of restoration projects we’ve done out there so far, and anything else folks have questions or curiosities about.”

The Land Trust acquired and protected the 1,240-acre Metolius Preserve in 2003. This primarily forested property located near Camp Sherman supports mature ponderosa pine, Douglas fir, and western larch, as well as a rich diversity of other plant species.

Three miles of Lake Creek, an important tributary to the Metolius River, flow through the property, contributing to the rich habitat found on the Preserve. The property is home to mule and black-tailed deer, black bear, cougar, bobcat, badger, beaver, otter, and a number of forest-dependent bird species. It also provides critical winter range for a herd of Roosevelt Elk.

The Metolius Preserve protects important fish and wildlife habitat while protecting and promoting old-growth ponderosa pine forest conditions. Lake Creek currently provides spawning habitat for native redband trout and nesting habitat for a wide range of neotropical songbirds.

Lake Creek is also an important part of current efforts to reintroduce spring chinook and sockeye salmon to the upper Deschutes Basin. Historically, a significant proportion of Metolius River spring chinook spawned in Lake Creek, and one of Oregon’s two native sockeye salmon runs migrated through Lake Creek to Suttle Lake. By protecting the Metolius Preserve, the Land Trust is helping to ensure a successful reintroduction of salmon in the upper Deschutes Basin. (http://bit.ly/mAuOWr)

Amanda Egertson has a BA in elementary education and music, an MS in animal ecology with a research focus on songbirds and butterflies, and extensive experience in outreach and interpretation. Prior to joining the Land Trust, she worked as the community outreach coordinator for the Central Oregon Environmental Center and as a naturalist for the Sunriver Nature Center and Observatory. She manages the Land Trust’s Preserves and monitors other conservation projects. (http://bit.ly/l6ODvo)

Most of the terrain we’ll be on will be fairly level, but we encourage folks to wear sturdy hiking shoes. And please bring water and snacks. Remember your binoculars, hat, and sunscreen. There are several benches scattered about the nature trail and kiosk area (no picnic tables though) — bring your lunch and we’ll tailgate after the walk. We are also welcome to venture further out on to the Preserve after the tour.

Members from Bend and points south, will meet at Cascades Village (between Highways 97 and 20) parking lot at Starbucks’ behind Johnny Carinos at 9:15 a.m. The Redmond contingent will meet at Eagle Crest at 9:15 a.m. and the two groups will rendezvous at Ray’s in Sisters at 9:50 a.m. for the last leg of the trip.

For those not joining the car pool, here are directions to South Fork Kiosk from Sisters:

Drive 10.6 miles west of Sisters on Highway 20/126. Turn right on unmarked Forest Service Road 2064. This is the first right turn 0.7 miles after the Camp Sherman/Metolius River turnoff. (You’ll know you’ve gone too far if the highway starts to head uphill and turns into three lanes). Travel 2.6 miles on Road 2064 (rough cinder road). Turn right on Road 800 and continue for 0.25 miles. Turn right on Road 810 and continue for 0.25 miles to the parking area.

Please call 1-541-617-4663 or 1-800-824-2714 to reserve your space, and let us know if you can be a driver.

Guided tour of the Healing Reins Therapeutic Riding Center
Thursday, July 21, 10:00 a.m.
Since 1999 Healing Reins Therapeutic Riding Center has been connecting riders with special needs to horses with special gifts. The riders are diverse. They come from different backgrounds, have different needs, and dream different dreams. Some are physically disabled, others mentally challenged. Still others need a way to reconnect with a world that seems to have forgotten them. All are joined by a common experience—the joy of independence, the freedom to fly without wings, the connection of hand to rein, skin to coat, heart to beating heart.

The tie between horse and healing is clear. Healing Reins Therapeutic Riding Center, a non-profit organization, provides therapeutic riding experiences to children and adults with physical and emotional challenges. Looking Ahead
Do you have an idea for a new study group or short course? Would you be interested in leading a group or course this fall? Plans are already underway for fall programming—contact Program Committee chair Helen Pruitt with your suggestions or proposals.

Here are some highlights:
• For those who have been waiting for more art and music DVD study groups, we are happy to announce that, beginning in the fall, we are scheduling a series of three requested courses: Broadway Musicals; Museum Masterpieces: National Gallery London; and The World’s Greatest Paintings. Mort Perle and Rod Charny will facilitate.
• Also, coming back in late fall by popular demand, Roger Aiken will offer another film review series. Roger has asked for suggestions of your favorite film titles. His email address is: raikin@creighton.edu and dedicated volunteers match the right horse to the right rider. They enhance the rider’s physical function, improve self-esteem, and ultimately unite two kindred spirits.
• Richard Hanstad, who presented the fascinating fall series on transcontinental railroads, is preparing a new slide show talk, The Silk Road. Look for an announcement and date in late fall.

The horse isn’t just a ride, however. It is the bridge from “I can’t” to “I can,” powerlessness to strength; the link that makes it possible for two spirits to run free, and countless hearts to soar. (http://healingreins.org/)

Science in the Twentieth Century
Fridays, July 8, noon–2:00 p.m.
July 22, 1:00–3:00 p.m.
Where are the sciences headed? The forecasts of nineteenth-century thinkers about the twentieth century could not have been more wrong, but professor Goldman hazards a few informed and fascinating predictions about the twenty-first century. Join us at the Des Chutes Historical Museum in July and August for the final sessions of this study group.

Documentary Films and Discussion Group
Wednesday, July 27, 10:00 a.m.–noon
The Wisdom of History is coming to an end, but OLLI-CO won’t leave our history buffs without material for discussion. To keep our minds active, and fill that Wednesday morning timeslot over the summer, we’re going to gather to watch and discuss Academy Award nominated documentaries.

Films that have been proposed include: Inside Job, The Most Dangerous Man in America: Daniel Ellsberg and the Pentagon Papers, Food, Inc, Operation Homecoming: Writing the Homecoming Experience, and Archaeology of the Hebrew Bible. Let us know what other documentaries you’d like to suggest that might appeal to this diverse group of people. Join us, beginning Wednesday, July 27. Watch for e-minders with confirmation of meeting location and time.
Now that summer has finally arrived in western Oregon, OLLI members are enjoying all that the season and our community has to offer: warmer temperatures and sunshine, gardening and outdoor pursuits, family visits, and annual events like the Oregon Bach Festival, Art and the Vineyard, or next month’s Oregon Festival of American Music. We hope that you’ll make OLLI part of your summer plans.

In July you’ll find numerous opportunities to enjoy the season through lifelong learning, whether you celebrate the spirit of 1776 with Kay Huston’s lecture series on George Washington, or travel to Silver Falls, or the Oregon coast for a whale-watching excursion.

Visiting family and friends are invited to join you for distinguished, UO Professor of Geography Alexander B. Murphy’s presentation on the Crisis of Geographical Ignorance—a topic of interest and importance for us all.

Two film series provide shelter from afternoon heat, or summer showers: Films of the Fabulous Fifties entertains on Mondays, while the summer Documentary Film Series airs films on first and third Fridays this month and next.

If your summer plans include travel to Portland or Central Oregon, you may want to take a look at the schedules for the sister sites. All members are welcome to attend events at any OLLI-UO program site—ask for more details at the office, 541-346-0697 or 800-824-2714.

The updated Membership Directory is now available for OLLI-UO members in Eugene/Springfield. See story on page 5 for details, or contact the office for more information.

Ruth Heller, Program Director

Despite the odds against him, Washington, as commander-in-chief of the new American Army, led his men through more than eight years of war to victory. Military actions ranging from battles in New York to Trenton to the final major battle in Yorktown, forced Washington to adopt guerrilla warfare, causing the British and many citizens of the colonies to brand him a coward.

All those years he fought as a volunteer, taking no salary for his services. He spent only one night at home at Mt. Vernon in all that time, put his own personal fortune and property at risk, as well as his own life. He always led his men and never sent them into harm’s way. Through terrible battles and frequent defeats, his men followed, respected, even loved him, as a leader of unflagging courage and vision.

Washington was a genuine person with doubts and failings, who rose above them to lead thirteen colonies in a war against Great Britain, the most powerful country in the world, the country Washington had originally hoped to serve.

He was a loving husband, good stepfather and grandfather, and a farmer first and foremost. He worked hard to provide a good life for himself and his family, bred race horses, hound dogs and mules, owned one of the largest rye whiskey distilleries in eighteenth-century America, and was an innovative farmer and businessman. In short, he was a multifaceted and multi-talented man who ventured everything he was and all that he owned in the cause of liberty.

Educator Kay Huston will begin this series of five presentations on July 6, during the week we celebrate Independence Day, and continue on four successive Wednesdays, concluding on August 3.

The Crisis of Geographical Ignorance: Why Should We Care?
Monday, July 18, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
Much is made about how little Americans know about geography, but why does it matter that most people are geographically ignorant? How does the failure to think geographically hamper efforts to confront the challenges of the twenty-first century?

Alexander B. Murphy, professor of geography at the University of Oregon, where he also holds the James F. and Shirley K. Rippey Chair in Liberal Arts and Sciences, addresses these questions through an exploration of the importance of geographical thinking and analysis for confronting some of the key geopolitical and environmental challenges facing the planet today.

Murphy specializes in political, cultural, and environmental geography, with regional emphases in Europe and the Middle East. He is senior vice president of the American Geographical Society and a past president of the Association of American Geographers. He co-edited Progress in Human Geography for eleven years, and currently serves as an editor of Eurasian Geography and Economics.

In the late 1990s, Murphy led the effort to add geography to the College Board’s Advanced Placement Program. He recently chaired the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council Committee charged with identifying “Strategic Directions for the Geographical Sciences.”

Murphy is the author of more than eighty articles and several books, and the recipient of numerous grants and awards. He holds a bachelor’s degree in archaeology from Yale University, a law degree from the Columbia University School of Law, and a PhD in geography from the University of Chicago.

Our Energy Future: A Physicist’s View
Friday, July 29, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
The quest for safe, secure, and sustainable energy poses one of the most critical challenges of our age. Many solutions are promoted—and have been for some time—but progress seems to be glacial.

Stephen Kevan, professor of physics and Physics Department Head at the University of Oregon, will approach this issue from two directions. First, based on material used in a science literacy course on the Physics of Energy and Environment, Kevan will show what future energy technologies are viable and on what scale. Then, based on a new research project, he will discuss how photovoltaic (solar cell) devices function and some of the current approaches being pursued for increasing their efficiency while decreasing their cost.

Kevan presently supervises a research program focusing on complex magnetism and emerging photovoltaic materials. He finished a BA in chemistry at Wesleyan University in 1976 and a PhD in physical chemistry in 1980. He spent six years at AT&T Bell Laboratories before joining the physics faculty at the UO.

Summer Documentary Series
Looking for something to do on Friday afternoons this summer? Come to OLLI and learn about the causes of the economic meltdown of 2008 and the hazards of relying on natural gas to solve our energy problems. Then, for lighter fare, fly with the birds as they migrate, dive into the ocean, and marvel at the ingenuity and fortitude of the great Antarctic explorer, Sir Ernest Henry Shackleton in one of the most heroic and amazing feats of survival ever recorded.

Kitty Meredith will introduce these documentaries, and will lead discussions afterward (if any of you will stay long enough to participate). Meetings are at 2:00 p.m.

Did you know that OLLI-UO has a strong online presence? In addition to The Oregon Sage newsletter and the sitespecific, online OLLI-UO calendars, OLLI-UO operates an events page and Facebook page to keep members informed and engaged.

The OLLI-UO Facebook page often posts program announcements and is a great place for members to share their thoughts on classes and events with staff and OLLI-UO members from all three sites.

The OLLI-UO events page is updated regularly and lists extended program descriptions that are too long to include in The Oregon Sage newsletter. Additionally, information on OLLI-UO in Portland study and discussion groups, which are not included in the newsletter, is listed in detail.

Both the event page and Facebook page are examples of social media in action. On Wednesday, July 6, at 1:30 p.m., digital designer Skipper McFarlane will present on social media, OLLI-UO’s growing presence in the online community, and ways for members to be involved and take advantage of this accessible technology. Laptops will be provided.

Though not yet implemented, plans are underway to introduce a new, online learning tool to OLLI-UO members called Blackboard Learn. Blackboard Learn is an interactive tool that will provide a web-based component to OLLI-UO programs held at all three sites. In addition to course information, members who choose to take part in Blackboard Learn will have twenty-four/seven access to course materials, recommended reading lists and discussion boards. Additionally, this tool will enable group participants to keep in communication with one another through e-mail and online chat. Stay tuned!

The Middle East: Islam, People, Energy, and US Foreign Policy

Tuesdays, June 21–July 26
1:30–3:30 p.m.

Dr. Peter Bechtold, chairman emeritus, Near East North Africa Area Studies, Foreign Service Institute, will return to OLI to deliver a five-lecture series on the Middle East.

Dr. Bechtold, who has done “field research in twenty-five Mid East countries, from Egypt to Israel to Iraq to Kazakhstan to the Gulf” will provide an astounding introduction to the Middle East. Topics will include:

• Understanding Islam
• Introduction to the Middle East—People
• Introduction to the Middle East—History
• Energy
• U.S. Foreign Policy toward the Middle East

Dr. Bechtold is an award-winning professor of more than 11,000 U.S. government employees (State Department, DOD, Commerce, CIA, FBI, USAID, USIA) in intensive courses and long-term seminars, and has conducted private briefings for numerous ambassadors and flag officers.

He has taught graduate level courses and seminars at the Foreign Service Institute (General Norman Schwarzkopf was a student of Bechtold’s class on the Near East before taking the reins of the U.S. Central Command in 1988), Georgetown, George Washington, John Hopkins, Maryland, and Oregon Universities; Army, Naval, Air War Colleges; Marine Corps and National Defense Universities. Media appearances include MacNeil Lehrer, PBS, CNN, NPR and overseas radio. Dr. Bechtold received PhDs from Princeton University in Near East studies and political science. Social Media through the OLLI Blog

Wednesday, July 6, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

This presentation will provide a brief introduction to the idea of social media and the ways in which we can engage in it. The focus will move towards looking at the OLLI event page and Facebook pages to familiarize OLLI members with these new tools. Laptop computers will be provided.

Portland’s Goose Hollow will be available to purchase following her presentation.
UO Digital Designer Skipper McFarlane will lead this interactive session. A familiarity with computers or social media is not required to participate in this session.

OLLI Films

Thursdays, July 7 and 21, 12:15 p.m. Two films have been chosen for July, one Chinese and one Taiwanese, that will explore particular aspects of each culture. OLLI member Phil Silverman will be facilitating July’s film selections.

The haunting film, Raise the Red Lantern (1991, 125 minutes) starring Gong Li and directed by Yimou Zhang, will be shown on July 7.

Newell’s research has been featured on Jean Michel Cousteau’s PBS film, Gray Whale Obstacle Course.

Members will have the chance to board a six-person zodiac, equipped with captain’s seats, blankets, and gloves, for an up-close look at these amazing creatures. Hour-long tours will cost $20.00 per person (a $10 discount).

Trip cost: $61.00, plus the cost of lunch. Trip cost with the optional Educational Whale Watching Tour: $81.00, plus the cost of lunch.

Leaving a Trace: Writing About Your Life

Thursdays, July 7–28, 2:30–4:30 p.m. This group, facilitated by Judi McGavin, is an opportunity to encourage yourself to write to explore what it means, to tell others and to enjoy the adventure. A journey into your past. It will also be a chance to put down all of those stories that you want your children and grandchildren to remember, and a chance to tell your story your way. A gift to leave to your family.

Lou Willett Stanek, PhD, says in her book, “writing from memory allows you to time-travel, to zoom back to people and places you have not seen in years. Buckle your seat belt. This trip could be the exhilarating escapade you’ve been itching for. Learning to see when you have moved to near to Narcissus’ pool, you will show how you have learned from highs and lows, changed and grown. Prepare for having fun in the process.”

Nearly two years after their move, has this new space been a success? Craig Briscoe of ZGF’s Sustainable Design Team was an integral part of the development and design of Twelve | West.

Using PowerPoint slides, Briscoe will lead OLLI-UO members through this project and talk about the hottest trends in architecture: sustainability and design, as well as discuss the current climate of Portland architecture.

Parking and Transportation Tips
Finding parking can often seem like a challenge for OLLI members attending events at the Portland White Stag Block. To make that task a little easier, we would like to share the following information:

On-Street Parking
There are over 7,000 on-street parking spaces in the downtown area. The White Stag Block is surrounded by ninety-minute parking meters; however there are five-hour meters just blocks away, near NW 3rd and Flanders. The parking meter rate is $1.60 per hour. Parking meters operate 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Sundays.

Garage Parking
Another option is to park in the Smart Park Garage at NW Naito and NW Davis, just one block north of the White Stag Block. Smart Park Garages offer affordable parking at $1.50 per hour.

Public Transportation
Both the Red and Blue Tri-Met Max lines run right past the White Stag Block with a convenient stop at Old Town/China Town just one block north. Honored citizens (those 65+) can purchase a two-hour ticket for just one dollar.

Safety First
A security guard is available upon request to escort you to the MAX or your vehicle. For more information on this service, please call 503-412-3653.
