CENTRAL OREGON—COCC Culinary School Tour and Lunch at Elevation Restaurant
Friday, May 11, 11:30 a.m.

With a new state-of-the-art culinary education facility, Cascade Culinary Institute (CCI) is educating the future innovators and leaders of the restaurant industry.

The culinary program trains those interested in professional food preparation, from aspiring chefs looking to make their mark, to food service workers developing their skills, to foodies who enjoy cooking classes. CCI’s Jungers Culinary Center on the COCC Bend campus brings together the latest kitchen classroom technology, multiple cooking labs, and a demo theatre, where students and

EUGENE/SPRINGFIELD—Author Jerry Rust on The Covered Bridge Murders
Friday, May 4, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Have you ever said, after finishing the latest who-done-it, “I think I could do that myself!” Former Lane County Commissioner and Willamette Valley native Jerry Rust did it. His newly published, The Covered Bridge Murders, is set in the Cottage Grove area at the end of the nineteenth century, when the area was busy with felling trees, farming, and gold mining in the Bohemia Mountains. The building of the famous covered bridges of the area and the childhood of the area’s most famous wild child, Opal Whiteley, are major features in this mystery.

PORTLAND—Warrior Women in Anglo-American History and Song
Tuesday, May 22, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Each year, when members of the Texas Boys’ Choir dress in Revolutionary costume to celebrate the Continental soldier of yore, they strike up a song about one such soldier—a woman named Deborah Sampson, who fought in George Washington’s army for three years and was awarded a pension by one of the first acts of the U.S. Congress. Deborah Sampson is just one example of the high-mettled heroine of popular ballads who masquerades as a man and ventures to war for love and glory. Songs celebrating such women flourished as “hits” for more than 200 years, reaching their zenith in the eighteenth century. The ballads are still alive today, embedded in the folksong traditions of America and Britain.
Editor’s Note: Central Oregon

Sometimes it feels like we’re members of a nomadic tribe moving from place to place to accommodate our burgeoning numbers. Russ, do we have the laptop and projector? Who took the instructions for the Mac? Helen, do you have the nametags and attendance sheet? Burt, did we pack the tents? What about the goats? How will we ever get into the “Promised Land” with so much confusion?

Our wanderings are soon coming to an end. I visited the Promised Land—the new home of the University of Oregon, the Duck Store and OLLI-UO in Central Oregon. As construction sites always seem, it will take a miracle of the current Easter/Passover season to be ready for us in May—but greater miracles have been wrought!

Our new location off Third Street and River Bend Mall has plenty of parking. Please park on the north side for easier access to the building side entrance for OLLI classes and to leave the area in front of the Duck Store open for their customers.

The meeting room appears larger than our current space in Shevlin-Hixon and will be used for all of our ongoing courses and member presentations. We will still use the Bend Senior Center or other larger facilities for our Open Houses and other open-to-the public programs.

Most important, the new space will be clean, bright, and ours. We will be sharing our classroom space with UO evening classes and the UO Foundation and Alumni Association, but we don’t anticipate conflicts. In fact, there will be benefits—visibility, a place to receive our mail, kitchen access to prepare coffee or tea, and up-to-date AV equipment.

We’re planning a celebration for our members in June with food, libation, and laughter. Watch for information coming soon.

The Indian War Era in Eastern Oregon

May 3, 9, 16, and 24, See below for times and locations.

The history of the Oregon Territory not only includes the trappers, mountain men, and ultimately settlers, but also those who were here first and lived in complex tribal societies. The intrusion of Euro-American homesteaders produced the skirmishes and wars of the northeastern and central parts of the Oregon region. OLLI is presenting speakers on a series of Eastern Oregon Indian Wars during May.

Joseph and the Nez Perce War of 1877

Thursday, May 3, 4:00–6:00 p.m.

“A man who would not defend his father’s grave is worse than a wild beast.” So said Joseph the Younger to his dying father as he succeeded as leader of the Wallowa band in 1871, and negotiated with the federal government to stay on their land in the Wallowa Valley. The words of Joseph and the resulting tragedy still echoes down through the years. We are fortunate to have Dr. Mark Spence, author and professor of history, University of Oregon, to relive this period with us.

Paulina and the Snake War of 1864-68

Wednesday, May 9, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

Following the Civil War, U.S. Army troops returned in force to the West to subdue the natives and establish military posts at Camp Alvord and Fort Harney. The escalating conflict in Oregon became known as the Snake Indian Wars, led by two war leaders, Paulina and Old Weawa.

Captain Jack and the Modoc War of 1872-73

Wednesday, May 16, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

In 1864, the Modoc Indians were living and fishing near Tule Lake, close to the present Oregon-California border. White settlers wanted these rich Modoc lands, but a remarkable leader arose to lead his people in the struggle to retain their ancient heritage. He was given the name Captain Jack, and his defense of his home by taking on the U.S. Army in the Lava Beds of south central Oregon went on for months.

Eric Iseman, park ranger, Oregon Parks and Recreation Department, leads us through this remarkable story.

Location: Bend Senior Center, 1600 SE Reed Mkt. Road

Eagan and the Bannock-Paiute War of 1878

Thursday, May 24, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

Starvation or war! The choice was stark. The Bannocks found their Great Camas Prairie, the source of camas bulbs for winter sustenance, overrun with settlers’ hogs and cattle. This led to one of the last of the Indian wars. The great chiefs, Buffalo Horn and Eagan, prepared for war. Eastern Oregon Region Interpretive Coordinator for Oregon Parks and Recreation, Paul M. Patton, helps us understand the people and the moment.

Observing the Night Sky: Astronomy for Everyone

Tuesday, May 8, 10:00 a.m.–noon

Join Jim Hammond on a tour through the spring and summer night sky and learn about a couple of daytime astronomical events. Hammond is a founding member of the Sisters Astronomy Club and is active in the club’s presentation of star observation sessions that are held in Sisters during warmer times of the year.

Hammond will discuss tools for observing the night sky, including binoculars, small telescopes, star charts, and other material available on the Internet for help in locating interesting objects in the sky. We will look at the various types of astronomical objects, the constellations, and how to find your way around the sky with easily observed markers.

Join Hammond and OLLI to improve your observations of the skies.

The Skeptic’s Guide to the Great Books

Tuesday, June 5, 10:00–11:45 a.m.

In June, OLLI-CO’s book discussion group will instead listen to and discuss a Teaching Company DVD—The Skeptic’s Guide to the Great Books: Kushner’s Angels in America.

“Angels in America as an alternative to the plays of Bertolt Brecht: While plays such as Mother Courage and The Good Woman of Setzuan are wonderful on stage, you can’t get the same enjoyment from reading a Bertolt Brecht play as you can by reading Tony Kushner’s kaleidoscopic commentary on the culture and politics of 1980s America. In addition, Kushner’s work is funny—making us laugh in a way that Brecht’s plays seldom do.

“Professor Voth helps navigate the plot and themes of this masterpiece, which explores everything from Reagan-era America and homosexuality to Mormonism and the end of Communism” (http://bit.ly/ybinUU).

The Book Discussion Group will be on hiatus for the remainder of June, July, and August. Look for the first fall session in September. Members who would like to make suggestions for the fall reading selections should contact Helen Pruitt at hprütt@aol.com.

Summer Documentary Films and Discussion Group
What will we do on Wednesday mornings when the American Mind DVD study group comes to an end? OLLI-CO won’t leave our history buffs without material for discussion. To keep our minds active and fill that Wednesday morning timeslot over the summer, we’ll gather to watch and discuss award-nominated documentaries.

Are you interested in the five excellent documentaries nominated for this year’s Oscar? Undefeated, the Oscar winner, is the story of an inner city high school football team; Hell and Back Again is the story of soldiers in Afghanistan—do these or the other nominees interest you? What other documentaries do you suggest that might appeal to our diverse group of members?

The first DVD will be June 13.
We will watch a talk given by Melissa Harris-Perry, professor and host of MSNBC’s “Melissa Harris-Perry,” on race relations and politics: Reconstruction Lessons: Current US Racial Politics and Lessons of the Civil War.

Please send your documentary recommendations to Helen Pruitt at hppruitt@aol.com.
Committee Chair’s Note

Program Updates for Eugene/Springfield
Haven’t seen some people you usually see at the OLLI events you attend? They probably haven’t dropped out; they just are attending another of the many OLLI programming choices. Patrick, who keeps a running count of attendance each month, indicated that we hit a record number of attendees during the month of March. New members have expressed their delight at the variety of programming options when planning their own personal weekly OLLI calendars. In fact, next fall we may need to make a few scheduling shifts so that the various forms of programming aren’t bumping into each other and we effectively can make maximum use of our space and volunteer talent. Stay tuned. Meanwhile, say hi to that person that you thought dropped out or went to Mexico. They just may have been in the next room!

Betty Hosokawa, Membership, Promotions and Awards Committee

Teleconference rescheduled from March 21. On Wednesday, May 2, 1:30–3:30 p.m., Karen Aguilar, a member of the Senior Foreign Service, currently detailed to the Army War College as a professor of International Relations, will provide a framework for discussion of terrorism and insurgency. Please see page ten of the March issue of The Oregon Sage for a complete description of this lecture titled Terrorism, Insurgency and Counterterrorism.

The Novel Critique Group (mystery/mainstream) has openings. Group requirement: a novel in progress. This group meets twice a month on the second and fourth Wednesdays from 2:00–4:00 p.m. If interested, please e-mail your first chapter (maximum 3,000 words) to facilitator Wolf Aulenbach, wolfau@gmail.com, for review.

Phyllis VIllec, Newsletter Editor

Rust shares the podium with members of OLLI’s Novel Critique Group for a discussion of their experiences as published authors of the genre.

For a first-hand look at the colorful locale of The Covered Bridge Murders, a day trip is scheduled for Thursday, May 17. See page ten.

Understanding Science: A Brave New World?
Tuesday, May 1, 10:30 a.m.–noon
Are we living in Aldous Huxley’s Brave New World? What are the benefits, risks, and responsibilities in dealing with the creations of modern biotechnology? Because we can do something, should we? How do corporations, who implement much of the gene technology, fit into the mix? Are these things right or wrong? Whose decisions are these?

Byron Chell is a regular in the OLLI Philosophy Salon and has made several presentations at OLLI concerning bioethics—the application of ethics to health care and biotechnology.

Armchair Traveler: Croatia
Wednesday, May 2, 1:30–3:30 p.m.
In 1968, Carole and Gary Chenkin drove from Trieste in northeastern Italy to Dubrovnik in what was then Yugoslavia as part of a trip around the world. In August and September 2011, they returned to what is now independent Croatia—this time traveling on the Dalmatian coast by boat beginning in Split, Croatia, and arriving in Athens, with stops in Montenegro, Albania, Corfu, and Delphi.

Picturesque villages and islands, ideal weather, friendly people, and diverse cultures from country to country lent special interest to this trip.

Come aboard and share the experience with Gary and Carole, including a surprise short visit to a city already familiar to many OLLI armchair travelers.

Political and Cultural Aspects of Nineteenth Century Mining in Hispanic Americas, Part II
Thursday, May 3, 2:00–4:00 p.m.
Assistant Professor Pedro Garcia-Caro, Romance Languages Department at UO, returns with his final lecture on nineteenth-century mining issues in North and South America. In the first hour, he will discuss mining in California and Chile from 1845 to 1875 and its influence on music, literature, and drama. Dr. Garcia-Caro will spend the second hour in a discussion in Spanish with the Spanish Conversation Group and other Spanish-speaking members of OLLI.

Oregon’s Direct Democracy

Monday, May 7, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

In 1902, Oregon voters overwhelmingly approved a ballot measure creating the state’s initiative and referendum procedure. In 1908, the state’s constitution was amended to allow for the recall of public officials. This system of empowering the people to propose new laws or change the Oregon constitution through a general election ballot became known as “the Oregon System.” Cherished by many citizens, it also has critics. How does the system work, and what are its strengths and weaknesses?

A panel of experts will examine these issues and answer questions based on professional, hands-on experience: Elections Division Manager for the state, Brenda Bayes; John Lindback, senior officer with the Pew Center on the states and a former director of elections for Oregon; Annette Newingham, former Lane County chief deputy county clerk; and Kappy Eaton, governance coordinator for the League of Women Voters of Oregon and a citizen advocate for over fifty years.

Cutting the Defense Budget Smartly, Parts I and II

Wednesdays, May 9 and 16, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Keith Eddins will lead a two-part discussion on the advantages of threat-based, mission-focused defense budgeting versus the military/industrial/congressional complex’s approach. The latter approach seems to prefer making defense budget decisions based on jobs in congressional districts and/or setting an artificial GDP percentage as the amount we “should” spend.

Eddins’ presentation will draw on his expertise as a Foreign Service Officer serving at NATO in Brussels and in the NATO affairs office within the European Bureau (EUR/RPM) in Washington.

International Relations

WWII Series

Fridays, May 11 and 18, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

May 11: The American Axis. John Attig will discuss the prominent Americans who supported Hitler and Mussolini.

December 7, 1941 ushered in one of the darkest, most tragic episodes in our history as a nation: the evacuation and internment of Japanese and Japanese-Americans away from the West Coast. The Nagai family was interned at Granada-Amache Relocation Center in southeastern Colorado. Gordon Nagai will share the experiences of his family in camp against the backdrop of the Japanese-American community in exile.

Let’s Go Local to Cottage Grove!

A Magical History Tour

Thursday, May 17, 9:00 a.m.–5:00 p.m.

Join author Jerry Rust, for an exploration of the sites featured in The Covered Bridge Murders. Attendance at Rust’s May 4 presentation is highly recommended to make the day memorable. Using the book’s plot as a framework, we will visit neighboring Cottage Grove, enjoy coffee at The Axe and Fiddle, and learn details of the town’s colorful history. The early life of Cottage Grove’s most famous resident, Opal Whiteley, will surely intrigue.

Plans include viewing antique logging equipment, a winery visit, a picnic in the woods, and the area’s famous covered bridges, a key feature of Rust’s book, as well as Bohemia Mountain’s old gold mines and the burgeoning logging industry of the time.

Wilhelm von Humboldt and the World of Languages

Wednesday, May 30, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Around 1800, it became possible for the first time to study all the world’s languages, and to use the findings, with those of anthropology and geography, to reconstruct the human family tree. This era revealed astonishing commonalities among peoples from Bengal to Britain and beyond. Lesser known are efforts during this same time to determine the affinity of the Native American languages and of the Malayo-Polynesian languages, spoken over a vast ocean world from Madagascar to Easter Island.

Ian McNeely, UO associate professor of history, focuses on the career of Wilhelm von Humboldt, the linguist, statesman, and university reformer who made signal contributions to all three of these investigations. Perched at the center of a global network of language scholars spread over six continents, Humboldt’s life and accomplishments form a fascinating chapter in the search to understand human culture through language and the development of one of the world’s first truly global networks of knowledge production.
Pack a picnic; bring your walking shoes and curiosity for a day revisiting our neighboring communities as they were a hundred years ago. Reserve with Experience Oregon, 541-342-2662, with your payment of $25, no later than May 10. A minimum of twenty participants are required, so invite a friend. Call Pat Bitner, 541-485-3971 for information.

Oceanography: Exploring Earth's Final Wilderness
Beginning May 15, 10:30 a.m.–noon
The oceans of the earth are a source of wonder, delight, sustenance, economic benefit, and awe. On Tuesday, May 15, the Understanding Science Study Group will begin a new Teaching Company DVD course on oceanography. Designed for viewers without a background in this specialized area, this thirty-six-lecture course takes us on a scientific expedition to fathom the mysteries of the sea with Harold J. Tobin, professor of geoscience at the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Understanding Science meets the first, third, and fifth Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m., all members are welcome. Please call John O’Brien if you have questions, 541-461-9100.

Short Story Seminar
Shiela Pardee begins a new short story seminar May 9 from 10:00 a.m.–1:00 p.m., continuing on the second and fourth Wednesdays through July. This session will have an international focus, using readings from The Art of the Story: An International Anthology of Contemporary Short Stories, edited by Daniel Halpern, Penguin Books, 2000.

We will begin with selections from India, China, and Russia in May. Order the book (available from Powell's and Amazon) and join us if you want to do a little traveling from your deck chair this summer. If you will be out of town for a real vacation, don’t worry about missing a week or two; each session will focus only on the stories assigned for that week. Newcomers are welcome, but class size is limited to keep discussion comfortable, so please sign up in the office.

The stories for May are:

A complete reading list will be available at the office before the first class. Contact Pardee at 541-515-4561 or shielapardee@gmail.com for additional information.
Editor’s Note: Portland

OLLI-UO in Portland is formally announcing the creation of an Advisory Council to help guide the program, address members’ concerns, and identify opportunities for organizational growth. As an elected position, Advisory Council members will represent the interests of OLLI-UO in Portland for a yearlong term, beginning June 1. This Council, in place at our OLLI-ES and OLLI-CO program sites, proves to be a tremendous asset, serving members as a unified voice to aid staff in program development. The Advisory Council is expected to meet monthly (day and time TBD).

Nominations for the Advisory Council are currently being accepted. Members may nominate themselves as well as fellow members. All nominations are due by noon on Friday, May 11. Members identified to serve will then be contacted by OLLI-UO staff to confirm their acceptance.

A general vote will be held to select four members for the Council. Results will be announced the first week of June.

Nominations may be made by calling the OLLI-UO office at 503-412-3653 or e-mailing amahoney@uoregon.edu. A secure “ballot” box will also be made available in the front office for submissions.

For additional information regarding the Advisory Council, contact the OLLI-UO in Portland office.

If you’re interested in becoming more involved in OLLI-UO but are not interested in the Advisory Council, consider joining the Program Committee or the Hospitality Committee. Any member may serve on these committees. We’d love to have you! For information on these committees or to volunteer, contact the OLLI-UO office in Portland.

This presentation introduces audiences to the courageous heroines of ballads and history—Hannah Snell in eighteenth-century England, Deborah Sampson in Revolutionary America, Sarah Rosetta Wakeman in the American Civil War—as well as the folk songs that celebrate their valor and deeds. We’ll listen to ten ballads from the 120 songs Dugaw has collected, in varied contexts and musical styles from Elizabethan to present-day cowboy songs. We also will discuss aspects of national history and politics illustrated by the songs, the cultural forms that shape heroism and women, and the popular music traditions of ordinary people.

Raised on a small ranch in the rural Pacific Northwest, presenter Dianne Dugaw began her career as a folksinger. In the 1970s, she traveled to the Ozark Mountain region of Arkansas and Oklahoma to collect traditional songs, hymns, and tunes. After earning a BA in English at the University of Portland, Dugaw went on to earn a master’s degree in English from the University of Colorado. She then studied literature, music, drama, and folklore at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) and received her PhD in English. For the past fifteen years, she has taught in the Department of English and the Folklore Program at the University of Oregon. Dugaw has published three books on topics in literary history and folklore and, in 2002, she recorded a CD entitled “Dangerous Examples—Fighting and Sailing Women in Song.” She has written numerous articles on literature, folklore, popular culture, and women’s studies, which have appeared in national and international journals. She continues to play music and sing in the Eugene area.

White Stag Block Tour
Tuesday, May 1, 1:30–3:00 p.m.
Comprised of three historic buildings—the Bickel Block Building, the Skidmore Block Building, and the White Stag and Hirsch-Weiss Building, the White Stag Block is one of a handful of LEED-certified buildings on the National Register of Historic Places. Learn about the merging of these separate buildings, the sustainability features incorporated into the block’s renovation, and its eclectic history as part of Portland’s waterfront. John Woelfle, facilities manager for the White Stag Block, will lead this tour.

From Page to Stage
Mondays, May 7, 14, and 21, 1:00–2:30 p.m.
The “play’s the thing,” but why? This discussion group is for theater lovers who want to better understand this most ancient of art forms. We will do this by first reading and discussing two plays by Lanford Wilson—Fifth of July and Talley’s Folly. Members will also have the opportunity to see a local adaptation of Fifth of July, directed by Jane Unger at Profile Theater. Tickets to this production may be purchased by calling the theater at 503-242-0080.

“Fifth of July is a 1978 play by American playwright Lanford Wilson. Set in rural Missouri in 1977, it revolves around the Talley family and their friends, and focuses on the disillusionment with America in the wake of the Vietnam War” (http://bit.ly/m9WSLD).

Copies of both plays are available in the OLLI-UO office. Members are encouraged to read through the plays before the start of class. Instructor: Susan Green.

The Art of Facilitation and Facilitating Challenging Discussions

Tuesday, May 15, 1:30–3:30 p.m.

Few people are naturally born teachers and facilitators. Facilitating even the most basic discussions can be intimidating, a lesson in patience, and even a challenge when conversation becomes heated. The first part of this session will really explore ways to facilitate a productive discussion and promote participation and inclusivity. In the second part of this session, we will tackle one of the most challenging aspects of facilitating—the difficult discussions. What do we do when tempers flare or people refuse to listen to other points of view? We’ll look at ways to maintain lively and respectful discussions if eruptions do occur.

Though we will focus on classroom situations, knowledge gained in this session can be applied to many situations, including those awkward Thanksgiving dinners with extended family. All members are encouraged to attend, especially those who might consider (or are currently) facilitating a discussion group or teaching a course. Jason Schreiner, faculty consultant with the University of Oregon Teaching Effectiveness Program, will lead this session.

Hoyt Arboretum Tour

Tuesday, May 29, 1:15 p.m.

It’s said that every tree at the Hoyt Arboretum has a story. Join OLLI-UO at this living laboratory to learn about its rich history and incredible specimens. It’s a resource for conservation of plant biodiversity and a home to trees from around the world. With guide Sue Thomas, botanic specialist and environmental educator, we’ll tour the arboretum and identify numerous trees and wildflowers.

Sue Thomas has managed environmental education activities for over ten years in all 10,000 acres of Portland’s parks, gardens, and natural resources. Included in these activities are a citizen science amphibian monitoring program, the urban migratory bird conservation treaty program with U.S. Fish and Wildlife, and an interpretive signage project for Portland Parks and Recreation.

Registration is required for this tour. To register, call the OLLI-UO office at 503-412-3653 by Thursday, May 24. Cost: $3.00. Meet at the Hoyt Arboretum Visitor Center 4000 SW Fairview Blvd. Portland, OR 97221.

Parking and Transportation Tips
Finding parking can often seem like a challenge for OLLI members attending events at the Portland White Stag Block. To make that task a little easier, we would like to share the following information:

On-Street Parking
There are over 7,000 on-street parking spaces in the downtown area. The White Stag Block is surrounded by ninety-minute parking meters; however there are five-hour meters just blocks away, near NW 3rd and Flanders. The parking meter rate is $1.60 per hour. Parking meters operate 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Sundays.

Garage Parking
Another option is to park in the Smart Park Garage at NW Naito and NW Davis, just one block north of the White Stag Block. Smart Park Garages offer affordable parking at $1.50 per hour.

Public Transportation
Both the Red and Blue Tri-Met Max lines run right past the White Stag Block with a convenient stop at Old Town/China Town just one block north. Honored citizens (those 65+) can purchase a two-hour ticket for just one dollar.

Safety First
A security guard is available upon request to escort you to the MAX or your vehicle. For more information on this service, please call 503-412-3653.
OLLI-ES on May 4; members of OLLI-PDX may view a recording of this same lecture on Tuesday, May 8, at 2:00 p.m. This presentation is highly recommended to make the tour memorable.
